

STARVING NATIVES APPEAL FOR AID

Porio Ricans Present Plutiful Plea to Davis.

WANT THE TARIFF SETTLED.

Mass-Meetings to Be Held To-Morrow When Immediate Congressional Action Will Be Demanded.

SAN JUAN DE PORTO RICO, March 17.—At a special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to-day it was decided to close all business houses on Monday afternoon to enable the merchants to attend an open air meeting on the Plaza with the object of drawing up a petition to Governor-General Davis, demanding immediate Congressional decision on the tariff, one way or the other. Telegrams were sent to all towns throughout Porto Rico, requesting like demands.

The feeling of uncertainty regarding the tariff holds business practically at a standstill, the merchants being afraid to order goods or to advance funds on the planters' accounts. The meeting to-day was conducted in a calm and business-like manner. The merchants here will be satisfied to accept any decision of Congress—either free trade, the 25 or 35 per cent. tariff, but they ask for a settlement of the question so that business activity may be resumed. The decision to take immediate steps only after mature deliberation.

STARVATION THREATENS. Sixty country women marched from Naranjo, arriving last evening, and petitioned Governor-General Davis to save them from starvation. They have no work and food. The women presented a most pitiable sight. They were barefooted and ragged, half naked, dust-covered and weary from their journey. Some of them were lame; all were discouraged.

The petition which they presented to the Governor-General tells the story of the depressing times, no work, and the price of rice, beans, and bread beyond reach, fruits destroyed, and the relief supply discontinued, bringing them and others where they came from almost to starvation.

DAVIS PROMISED RELIEF. General Davis promised relief to the party, and requested the Mayor to provide transportation. His reply was that there was not a peso in the Treasury and that the police were yet unpaid for their last two months' work. The party of women dispersed quietly, some retracing their steps alone, others begging easier conveyance to Naranjo, which is twenty miles from San Juan, a portion of the road being almost impassable.

Similar parties are expected from other towns.

CHESAPEAKE MYSTERY.

The Police of Baltimore Vainly Try to Solve It.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., March 16.—Police in the cities along the upper Chesapeake shore and the Susquehanna River are endeavoring to solve the mystery of a young woman whose body has been taken from the Magothy River, near this place. Appared as a woman of refinement, she wore a diamond pin at the throat, a ring and other articles were taken in charge by the coroner, and are now in the hands of the police.

Three fishermen made the discovery of the body. One was William Campbell, who was taking the body out of the water, and the other two were waiting for him. They were attending their nets when they found it wedged between two logs. The body was found in a covered wagon made of the Chesapeake and in that way reached the point where it was discovered. No woman has been seen since.

The county authorities have notified the police of Baltimore, Philadelphia, Wilmington and other places of the discovery, and inquiries have been made in each of these cities. The body was found in a covered wagon made of the Chesapeake and in that way reached the point where it was discovered. No woman has been seen since.

A SAD ROMANCE.

A Marriage in New York Recalls Family Troubles.

A sad and romantic story is hidden behind the following marriage notice, which appeared in the Herald on Thursday:

HEMINSWAY-DRIGGS.—At the residence of Homer Heminsway, Esq., No. 8 West Fifty-third St., New York, on March 16, Dr. Henry Rowland, of Waterbury, Conn., Anne Buel Heminsway, daughter of Mrs. Henry Merriman, to George Asa Driggs.

Society in Waterbury is particularly interested in the announcement of this marriage, because Dr. Heminsway and Mr. Driggs have also many friends in New York. Mr. Heminsway is a merchant in business at No. 74 Greene Street. Miss Heminsway, who lives in Waterbury, is his niece. She has been residing at his home in New York.

Mr. Driggs is secretary and treasurer of the American Pin Company, of Waterbury. His father was Theodore I. Driggs, who did more to revolutionize the pin industry and make the price of pins as low as it now is than any other man. George Asa Driggs was a great society favorite before a tragedy came into his life, and had been prominent in Connecticut in Waterbury politics.

When Mr. Driggs was a young man he fell in love with Annie Morton of Waterbury. She was at that time considered to be the most beautiful woman in the Naugatuck Valley. She fell equally in love with Mr. Driggs and a marriage followed. Their married life was very happy, and two boys were born to them.

He declared that he had been empowered by Mrs. Driggs to act as her attorney. He said that Mrs. Driggs did not care to live with her husband any longer.

The divorce suit was heard in chambers, and the evidence was said to have been the most sensational ever heard in a similar case in New Haven county. Mr. Driggs received a decree and also the custody of the two children.

Shortly after this Colonel Burnes and Mrs. Driggs were married. Waterbury society was not greatly interested in Mrs. Burnes-Driggs, and to a certain extent she continued to exert the same influence that had always made her popular. She was without the society of her children, however, and this made her very unhappy. She began to misbehave, because she did not see them, and a few years ago died in a hospital in Hartford of what many declared was a broken heart. Her death was referred to by many as the end of a tragedy.

After the death of his wife Colonel Burnes became even more powerful than before in politics and other circles. Between him and Mr. Driggs was a gulf that grew all the wider by political differences. The two families were not only to drop out of politics almost entirely. The tragedy in the life of Mr. Driggs and his former wife was recalled a few months ago when the announcement of his engagement to Miss Heminsway was made. She was further emphasized when a few days ago, came the news of the death of Morton Campbell Driggs, the sixteen-year-old son of George Asa Driggs, who was the idol of his father, and for whose companionship and love together with that of her other child, a mother's heart had been broken.

The remaining son, Theodore, was then also taken ill. In the emergency came Miss Heminsway, to whom Mr. Driggs was engaged. She lived with him constantly, and in time he was restored to health. The marriage notice in Thursday's Herald is the sequel—New York Herald.

WORK ON THE PLUNGER.

It Will Be Hoisted on the Ways at the Trigg Yards.

The long-awaited Plunger, as stated in yesterday's Times, now floats in the dock at the Trigg ship-yard. The value of the boat, the steam machinery will all be removed and electric engines will be substituted. This will entail a cost of about $40,000 and will consume about six or seven months. The work will be begun at once, and the machinery can be removed and the boat hoisted on the ways.

THE PLUNGER'S MATE. It is interesting to note, in connection with the arrival of the Plunger at the William R. Trigg Company's ship-yard, the following, which was taken from the Baltimore Sun.

The Herald to-morrow will publish the following dispatch from Washington: "Representative Jones, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, has received from Admiral Dewey a copy of a memorandum prepared by the latter officer, in which he states that the submarine torpedo boat, and who has been on duty at the Trigg ship-yard, is understood, endorses the report of his aid, who expresses the belief that a determined enemy could have made impossible the occupation of Manila Bay by the Admiral's squadron."

"Throughout the performance there was no accident or hitch of any sort, and the woman was not hurt or bruised, probably from contact with logs and debris. The woman had worn a dress of dark material, which was faded and damaged by the water. The linen was of fine quality, as were the shoes and stockings. The woman apparently was about twenty years old, and had small, well preserved teeth. Four rings were found on the fingers, and the body was covered with a diamond pin at the throat, a ring and other articles were taken in charge by the coroner, and are now in the hands of the police."

Inquiry has been made at Havre de Grace and Point Deposit, with the idea of finding out where the body was taken from the Chesapeake, and in that way reached the point where it was discovered. No woman has been seen since.

The county authorities have notified the police of Baltimore, Philadelphia, Wilmington and other places of the discovery, and inquiries have been made in each of these cities. The body was found in a covered wagon made of the Chesapeake and in that way reached the point where it was discovered. No woman has been seen since.
